

GREP NEWS

CSMC

APRIL 2024, VOL 4.

SELFIES WITH PETE WINNER!!

After an unbridling amount of deliberation amongst the CSMC, we have found our semesterly Selfies with Pete winner!! Since they submitted this stellar photo to our left, Tahareem Ali will be winning a custom mug with this very selfie engraved onto it! Congratulations to you and be on the lookout for your prize!

MAJOR CHANGES

As you all are aware, new major requirements begin starting next fall! They are as follows!

Required Units: 11 -> 10 Units

101 No longer Counts Towards Major OS & Compilers -> OS or Compilers*

2 Electives & Intensive -> 3 Electives*

(OS or Compilers count as electives if not taken as required)*

VIEW THE FULL MAJOR/CORRELATE REQUIREMENT
CHART OVER AT
CS.VASSAR.EDU/DEPGRAPH

SANDERS OR NEW ENGLAND PATH?

In our first issue of 2024, we asked one of the most divisive questions in the department... which path is shorter to Sanders Physics? The one by New England or by Sanders Classroom? We have both what the people thought and the stats and methods coming to you on the next page!!

GREP NEWS

CSMC

APRIL 2024, VOL 4.

The PATH POLL RESULTS...

Our final results from our study concluded that of the Computer Science Majors and Correlates questioned about which path was shorter...

68 % said New England...

32% said Sanders Classroom

But does the voice of our native computer scientists match up to reality?

THE UNDENIABLE DATA

The CSMC spent months deliberating how to formally calculate this distance. Walking? Running? Biking? BFS or DFS? Stack or Queue? We eventually settled on two very scientifically algorithmic approaches...

leapfrogs and individual (Dafne) foots.

When our brave Vice Chair Abby and Events Manager Dafne were tasked to complete a series of leapfrogs to and from both paths, we found...

New England: 107 Leapfrogs

Sanders Classroom: 84 Leapfrogs

Dafne then took a sole pun trek across both paths, to find it took

New England: 542 Dafne Foots

Sanders Classroom: 462 Dafne Foots

SANDERS IS THE WAY TO GO!

With the most conclusive evidence, here are some fun facts about our sample survey population...

- Most Sanders Classroom truthers were the oldest child,
- Most SC-ers also happen to go to Root above the other Deece stations, compared most of the Home-rs on the New England side
- A sweeping majority of the 2026 class sample voted in favor of the New England path compared to other classes